

Fate of 20 MIAs learned

Viet Reds release list of U.S. dead

PARIS (AP) — The Vietnamese government gave the United States a list today of 20 more missing Americans whose remains it said had been found in Vietnam. Assistant Secretary of State Richard Holbrooke, who resumed negotiations with Deputy Foreign Minister Phan Hien on Thursday on establishment of diplomatic relations between their governments, said the families of the men on the list "are being informed by their respective military services." He said there would be no public announcement of the names until the U.S. Army's central identification laboratory in Hawaii confirmed the identifications supplied by the Vietnamese. A vigorous effort to help trace hundreds of Americans still listed as missing in action in the Vietnam War was the chief condition made by the United States for the establishment of diplomatic relations with Vietnam. Holbrooke said Hien told him the remains of the 20 men would be returned along with the remains of two other Americans whose return was promised the special commission President Carter sent to Hanoi in March.

The commission, which was headed by Leonard Woodcock, brought back the remains of 11 Americans. They were told the Vietnamese would return the remains of CIA operative Tucker Guggleman and an unidentified B52 crewman who was shot down during the Christmas, 1972, bombing of Hanoi. Holbrooke said he expressed his appreciation to Hien for Vietnam's "positive action" in supplying the 20 new names.

Holbrooke and Hien met for 3½ hours Thursday at the U.S. Embassy and again for 3½ hours today, then agreed to meet again "in the near future," the American representative said.

The two men opened their negotiations with a two-day round of talks at the Vietnamese Embassy May 3 and 4.

Suspended officer resigns from job with police force

The 28-day suspension of Washington C.H. Police Sgt. Luther Anderson ended Friday morning, but rather than return to duty, the 12-year veteran of the police department submitted his resignation.

Anderson was suspended and demoted from sergeant to patrolman by Washington C.H. City Manager George H. Shapter after reviewing a recommendation from Washington C.H. Police Chief Rodman Scott.

City officials and Anderson refused to comment on the suspension and demotion until the Civil Service Commission ruled on an appeal submitted by Anderson's attorney, John Connors of Columbus.

The commission held a closed hearing on the matter last week and notified city officials and Anderson by mail earlier this week that a decision had been reached.

The three-member commission of William G. Ward, William B. Johnson, and Burdette Johnson upheld the 28-day suspension, but rejected the demotion. News of the commission's findings were released Friday morning by Shapter.

Shapter said that he issued a memorandum to Chief Scott on Thursday to reschedule Anderson for duty starting at 8 a.m. Friday. Anderson would have retained the rank of sergeant, a promotion he received in 1969.

However, Anderson submitted his resignation Friday morning rather than return to duty.

Anderson could not be contacted for comment Friday morning. He was reportedly out of town. When contacted by telephone Thursday about the outcome of the Civil Service Commission's findings, he said he had no comment.

On Friday, Shapter emphasized that Anderson was suspended for violating departmental regulations, and had nothing to do with any "wrong doing." He did not wish to elaborate on what departmental regulations Anderson violated.

Shapter also stated that Anderson did not break any laws and he (Shapter) did not want Anderson's integrity or reputation damaged.

Presumably, Anderson still has a right to appeal the Civil Service Commission's decision through the court system beginning with the Fayette County Common Pleas Court.

However, Anderson's attorney could not be reached for comment Friday on plans for further appeals.

BRIDGE OVER TROUBLED WATERS — Max Bobst, a county highway department employee, was a bit apprehensive about climbing out on the partially dismantled 88-year-old bridge located on Cook-Yankeetown Road. The winds were high and it was a long way down to Paint Creek, which isn't any more than a foot deep at this spot. Mustering up his courage, Bobst walked on a beam to the center of the bridge and then cautiously began using a cutting torch on the steel vertical strips which weigh about 800 pounds each.

New span set for Cook-Yankeetown Road

Old bridge being dismantled

Fayette County highway department workers Thursday began dismantling an 88-year-old bridge on Cook-Yankeetown Road.

The bridge, which spans the north fork of Paint Creek, was constructed around 1889, according to Fayette County Engineer Donald Conley.

Conley said the bridge will be replaced in an $80,000 project expected to begin later this month.

The old bridge, which is 15½ feet wide and 73 feet in length, has been deemed unsuitable for travel by modern-day farming equipment such as combines and corn planters. Conley said the structure is too narrow and not nearly strong enough to withstand heavy loads being carried by farm vehicles.

The county engineer pointed out that the bridge was constructed to hold a five-ton load limit. The new bridge will be capable of handling a 20-ton load limit, will be 28 feet wide and 82 feet in length.

The G.W. Melvin Construction Co., of Columbus, was awarded the contract for the construction of the new structure. The firm submitted a bid of $34,596.27 for the project which is scheduled to be launched on June 20.

Conley said the bridge replacement project is being financed with federal off-system funds on a 70-30 cost sharing basis. The federal share is expected to be $59,200 and the county's cost will be $31,400.

The new bridge on Cook-Yankeetown Road, which is the last county road in northern Fayette County in Madison Township, should be completed around September 20, Conley said.

"In recent years, Cook-Yankeetown Road has picked up traffic to the (Deer Creek State Park) reservoir," Conley said.

The county engineer said two other factors besides the increased traffic volume were involved in the decision to replace the structure. Other factors included the fact that Madison Township area farmers have been forced to detour some three or four miles because they were unable to get their equipment across the narrow bridge and the fact that the bridge had only a five-ton load limit. Conley said the decision to replace an antiquated bridge all depends on "the traffic served by the bridge and the strength of the bridge."

"Sometimes nothing is wrong with the strength of the bridge, but it's too narrow," he said.

Supper club fire brings $21 million damage suit

SOUTHGATE, Ky. (AP) — A $21.5 million damage suit, the first of many expected, has been filed on behalf of a southern Indiana couple following the fire at the Beverly Hills Supper Club in which at least 161 died.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court in nearby Covington on behalf of Ronald Shuman of Bright, Ind., in serious condition at a hospital, and the estate of his wife Rosalie, who died in the blaze.

Named as defendants were the 4-R Corp., which owns the club; Richard J. Schilling and his three sons, the operators; architect William R. Roeding of Blue Ridge Summit, Pa.; the City of Southgate and the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

The suit alleges the building was improperly constructed and designed and failed to provide fire safety systems, including properly marked exits, fire walls and nonflammable materials and furniture. It also accused the operators of overcrowding the club, failing to warn patrons promptly, and trying to put out the fire themselves before calling firemen when it was out of control.

The suit charges the city and the state with failing to inspect and enforce building and fire codes and laws and failing to provide proper firefighting equipment and personnel.

Meanwhile, Dr. Fred Stine, Campbell County Coroner, said a new search for two more bodies would begin today. He said two persons reported missing have not been located. Stine said there are two bodies still not identified but neither was one of the reported missing.

Authorities continued their efforts to determine just how many people were in the club when it caught fire and burned Saturday night.

Kentucky State Police Commissioner Ken Brandenburg said, "It's a critical question." "It may not tell us the cause or the source of the fire, but it is a key element in the determination of why 161 people did not get out."

Preliminary interviews of those who survived the fire at the supper club—located five miles south of Cincinnati—have frequently mentioned overcrowding.

Singer John Davidson, appearing at the club the night of the fire, also commented on the overcrowded conditions.

"We've gotten quite a range of opinions," said Brandenburg, who added that the estimates on the number of people at the club that night have varied widely.

At the time of the fire, some law enforcement officials estimated there were between 3,000 and 5,000 people in the club.

Brandenburg's office has asked survivors to write in and say they were at the club that night so an accurate count can be made.

"We're hoping our write-in census will help us to get an accurate count."

The police commissioner said his investigators will continue their on-site inspection into next week and initial interviews would continue for two or three weeks.

Combined ceremonies slated Sunday

Graduation rites set for 173 WSHS seniors

By this time next week, 173 seniors at Washington Senior High School will have left their high school days behind and taken their places on the threshold of a new life as young men and women.

Some will go on to college, some to technical and vocational schools, some into the military service and some to start into the business of making a living.

The 173 seniors at Washington Senior High School will receive their diplomas during the school's 101st commencement ceremonies at 4:30 p.m. Sunday at Gardner Park Stadium.

In the event of rain, combined commencement-baccalaureate ceremonies will be held in the Washington Senior High School gymnasium.

Three seniors will be featured during the Sunday afternoon ceremonies. Robyne Jayne Lambert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lambert, 512 Highland Ave., will deliver the salutatorian's address. The class valedictorian's address will be delivered by Rebecca Louise Wheat, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Gerald Wheat, 220 N. Hinde St.

The class president's farewell address will be delivered by John Howard Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Walker, 534 Damon Drive.

The combined baccalaureate-commencement exercise will open with the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance" prelude by the Washington Senior High School band under the direction of Dennis Wollam. The presentation of colors will be handled by the Washington Senior High School Naval Junior ROTC brigade.

The Rev. Gerald Wheat, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will deliver the invocation to be followed by the singing of "How Great Thou Art."

A scripture reading will be presented by the Rev. Stan Toler, pastor of the Gregg Street Church of Christ in Christian Union. The Rev. Toler will also deliver the class sermon.

The highlight of the commencement ceremony will be the announcement of scholarships and awards by Thomas K. Rankin, assistant principal at Washington Senior High School.

Maurice A. Pfeifer, principal at Washington Senior High School, will present the class. The class will be accepted by Edwin M. Nestor, district superintendent, and diplomas will be distributed by Nestor and Robert Highfield, president of the Washington C.H. Board of Education.

The alma mater will be sung by the audience. It will be directed by Bryan Connell and Mike McDonald will be the trumpeter. Both are seniors.

Rev. Wheat will deliver the benediction before the band plays the recessional.

Thirteen seniors will be graduating with high scholastic distinction. The students and their grade point averages are:

Rebecca Wheat, 4.00; Robyne Lambert, 3.98; Mary Beth Schaeper and Mary Jill Schaeper, 3.97; Mark

Also surviving are 67 grandchildren and several great-grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Homer (Betty) Penwell of 230 Green St.; and a nephew. A brother and two sisters preceded him in death.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Sugar Grove Methodist Church with the Rev. Charles Williams officiating. Burial will be in the Sugar Grove Methodist Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home from 12 noon until 9 p.m. Sunday.

MRS. ANN SNOW — Services for Mrs. Ann Snow, 75, of 277 E. Washington St., Sabina, were held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the Littleton Funeral Home, Sabina, with the Rev. John Byard officiating.

Mrs. Snow died Monday in Clinton Memorial Hospital, Wilmington.

Mrs. Walter Stackhouse was the organist for the services. Pallbearers for the burial in Sabina Cemetery were Harold PeGan, Ken Briggs, Phil Snow, Art Evans, Randy Smith, John and Walter Streber, Paul Luttrell and Tim Anders.

Reading meeting draws 48 persons

Forty-eight volunteers attended a meeting of the Carnegie Public Library's "Book Buddy" program Thursday night.

The program will be offered this summer by the Carnegie Public Library staff to assist reluctant readers in grades 1-3.

Mrs. Pam Heath, a first grade teacher and reading specialist, and Mrs. Frances Tye, a Title I reading teacher, both from Belle-Aire Elementary School, explained methods of assisting children with reading problems.

The volunteers will be spending approximately one hour per week at the library helping the students improve their reading skills.

Mrs. Kathy Halverson, children's librarian, said Mrs. Mary Loraine Davis, librarian at the Washington C.H. Middle School, has assisted with the school-public library cooperative program.

Parents who would like to enroll their children in the summer program should contact the children's department at the library.

110 persons saved as ship hits berg

HALIFAX, Canada (AP) — All 110 passengers and crewmen of the ferry William Carson were reported rescued early today from ice floes and lifeboats after heavy ice punctured the 8,300-ton ship and it sank off the Labrador coast of northeast Canada.

The 88 passengers and 22 crew members of the Canadian National ferry were reported in good condition. Helicopters took 42 of them to Mary's Harbor, Labrador, and St. Anthony, Newfoundland, and the government icebreaker Sir Humphrey Gilbert rescued the rest, a Canadian National spokesman announced.

The Carson left St. John's, at the southeast corner of Newfoundland island, Tuesday night on its first scheduled run of the season along the Atlantic coasts of the island and Labrador.

The car-and-passenger ferry was bound for Goose Bay, in Labrador more than 500 miles northwest of St. John's.

The ship sent out an SOS at 9:43 p.m. Thursday reporting ice had ruptured its hull near the Square Islands, 18 miles off the Labrador coast. Thirty minutes later another message said the passengers and crew were abandoning ship.

The ferry sank about three hours later. With it went 1,000 tons of general cargo, including 4,432 cases of beer.

George Pike, a crewman among those taken to the nursing station at Mary's Harbor, said there was time for everyone who had gone to bed to dress and there was no panic.

Pike said despite heavy ice in the area, the air temperature was moderate and there was a full moon.

The first helicopter arrived after midnight, he said. Some of the stranded crew members lighted flares, and two Canadian Air Force planes from Prince Edward Island arrived to illuminate the area with searchlights and flares for the rescue.

The icebreaker arrived about 3 a.m. The village of Goose Bay, 130 miles inland at the head of Lake Melville, exists because of its radio station, used by transatlantic commercial flights, and the lumber industry. It has no road or rail connection with the rest of Canada and most supplies reach the village by coastal ship.

Senate OKs Lake Erie drilling

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Senators have sent the House a controversial bill spawned by last winter's energy crisis to clear the way for exploratory natural gas drilling in Lake Erie.

However, approval by a 21-10 vote Thursday came after lengthy debate and warnings by some senators that the three exploratory wells permitted in the legislation could be just the first of many.

Two freshmen senators, both Democrats, clashed on the issue.

Sen. Ronald L. Nabakowski, D-13 Lorain, said "this bill is just whetting the appetite. We're not talking about three wells."

The 34-year-old Nabakowski challenged an earlier assertion by the bill's main sponsor, veteran Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, and others that there "won't be a mad scramble" for licenses to drill.

"I'm not so sure of that," he said, adding that he believes "what we are talking about here is perhaps the destruction of that lake."

Sen. Michael Schwarzwald, D-16 Columbus, a 32-year-old lawyer who leans liberal on many issues, strongly argued for passage, saying he was convinced it contains adequate safeguards and that Ohio would be wise not to entirely depend on southwestern states for future supplies of natural gas.

The first-term Schwarzwald said that while the amount of gas available from beneath the lake may be small in comparison to the state's total needs, "the prudent step would be to pass this bill and find out what we have in Lake Erie in terms of supply."

Schwarzwald said he had been against the bill at the time of its introduction, but became convinced during testimony that Ohio's energy problem is crucial "and it's not going to go away. It's going to be a case of when push comes to shove in the next 15 years or so."

Calabrese reviewed what he said were adequate safeguards, including the fact that the natural resources department and the energy resources and development agency would have to make an environmental impact study, as well as an estimate of reserves in the eastern portion of the lake—the only area that could be drilled under the bill.

Jobless rate drops below 7 per cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate in May fell below 7 per cent for the first time in 2½ years, edging down to 6.9 per cent, the Labor Department reported today.

The department said the decline in the jobless rate, down from 7 per cent in April, coupled with continued growth in employment last month signaled further improvement in the economy.

Total employment rose by 385,000 in May to 90.4 million.

Since October, the government noted that nearly 2.7 million more Americans have found jobs, an average of 380,000 a month.

The unemployment rate has fallen from its post-recession high of 8 per cent last November and at 6.9 per cent stands at its lowest level since November 1974, when it stood at 6.7 per cent.

The number of unemployed totaled 6,750,000 last month, a decline of about 13,000 from April.

The jobless rate for adult women fell from 7 per cent to 6.6 per cent, but the rate for adult men rose to 5.3 per cent from 5 per cent, as joblessness among adult black males increased.

Labor Department analysts said the increase in the male jobless rate following a decline of nearly a full percentage point between February and April could be a disturbing sign or merely a quirk in the statistics. However, the analysts said no conclusion could be made on the basis of only one month's figures.

Jobless rates for most other worker categories were little changed last month.

Joblessness among teen-agers increased slightly from 17.8 to 17.9 per cent.

Among whites, unemployment edged down to 6.2 per cent from 6.3 per cent, while the rate for blacks increased from 12.3 to 12.9 per cent.

The gain in employment last month included a rise of 125,000 new jobs in agriculture, the government said. Industry payrolls also increased for the seventh consecutive month, advancing by 185,000 in May with most of the gain in the durable goods industries, including fabricated metal products, machinery and electrical equipment. Employment in the construction industry, which had grown substantially earlier this year rose by 15,000 in May.

Wrong woman dead

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Delores Price, convinced her neighbors thought she stole money raised for her crippled daughter, slashed her wrists with scissors and a dull razor blade.

A message scrawled with lipstick on a bathroom mirror read, "I didn't do it."

On Thursday, a professional fundraiser, Carol Grudzinski, was convicted of the crime that drove Mrs. Price to suicide a year ago.

Miss Grudzinski, 34, was convicted in a non-jury trial of theft and other crimes in connection with bingo games, gambling and other fundraising activities billed as benefits for Pamela Price, 18, a victim of cerebral palsy.

The prosecution never said how much money was raised for Pamela. One witness testified he contributed $35,000. A bank official testified Miss Grudzinski made a single deposit of $2,000 in checks to a trust account in Pamela's name.

Miss Grudzinski showed no emotion when Judge Charles Durham announced his verdict. Last week she ran crying from the courtroom when Pamela was brought to the stand in a wheelchair.

The Price family's association with Miss Grudzinski began in late 1975. Because the fundraiser earlier had set up an organization called Future of Philadelphia, purportedly to raise funds for the handicapped, Pamela's father, Martin Price, asked her help to raise money for an operation for Pamela.

According to the charges, bingo games and casino nights billed as benefits for Pamela were simple gambling operations run by Future of Philadelphia for about six months, into 1976.

Miss Grudzinski was previously arrested on unrelated gambling charges and linked in those charges to men named by the FBI and federal authorities as underworld figures.

She faces a maximum term of 20 years in jail and fines totaling $15,000. She was freed on her own recognizance pending disposition of presentence defense motions.

Extremists still seek mediator

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Dutch authorities and South Moluccan extremists for the second time exchanged names of proposed mediators to negotiate an end to the 11-day terrorist action in northern Holland. A Justice Ministry spokesman said a government representative would talk by telephone today with the terrorists who hold at least 55 hostages on a train north of Assen to see if agreement could be reached.

Earlier this week the government rejected the names of two South Moluccans proposed by the terrorists, and the Moluccans rejected two proposed by the government.

The Dutch government is trying to end twin sieges at the train and Bovensmilde schoolhouse, south of Assen, where four Moluccans hold four teachers hostage. There are an estimated seven to 10 terrorists on the train. One of their captives is a 23-year-old pregnant woman.

Stock list goes higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pushed ahead today with a lift from some favorable news on inflation and interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose more than a point in the early going.

Gainers took a 3-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

At the opening the Labor Department reported that the wholesale price index rose only 0.4 per cent in May for the smallest increase in nine months.

And New York's Citibank held its prime lending rate unchanged at 6 3/4 per cent. There had been some fears that the bank would increase the basic charge on blue chip loans to 7 per cent after two quarter-point increases last month.

Today's early prices included RCA, up 3/4 at 31 1/4; Occidental Petroleum, ahead 1/4 at 27 1/4; and American Telephone & Telegraph, unchanged at 63.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 3.40 to 903.15. Gainers and losers were evenly balanced in the over-all tally on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 18.62 million shares, against 18.32 million on Wednesday.

The NYSE's composite index lost .09 to 52.88.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .06 at 112.25.

Catholics to change communion

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. Roman Catholic bishops have voted to break with a millennium-old church practice of distributing communion on the tongues of worshippers and to restore an even older way — distributing it in their hands.

That's how it was done in ancient Christianity and for the first nine centuries of church history.

But the decision Thursday to revive that alternative, changing the present custom that has prevailed for the past 1,100 years, came amid continuing opposition in some sectors of the church.

While papal approval still was needed to implement the change, this seemed almost certain since it already has been given in 43 other countries.

The U.S. decision came through results of a mailed poll of 29 bishops absent from a bishops' meeting last month in Chicago, where a 174-to-71 vote of those present for the change fell nine short of the two-thirds needed for passage — 183 of all 274 active bishops.

But the mailed ballots — 16 affirmative, eight negative and five not replying — brought the favorable total to 190 — seven more than needed. The negative total was raised to 79.

A spokesman for the bishops in Washington, D.C., said the custom of distributing communion on the tongue will remain the rule until papal approval of the new option is received.

The practice of distributing communion on the tongues of worshippers developed in the ninth century in a time of growing distinction between clergy and laity.

U.S., Cuba exchange diplomats

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States announced today that it will exchange diplomats with Cuba for the first time in 16 years.

"We have agreed with the Cubans to exchange interest sections," State Department spokesman John Traftner said.

He said the Carter administration would make a formal announcement later today and would provide additional details on the first exchange of diplomats between the two countries since Dwight D. Eisenhower sat in the White House.

Exchange of diplomats is a major step toward renewing ties with the Marxist government of Fidel Castro that were severed in 1961, largely on the grounds that Cuba was exporting revolution in the Western Hemisphere.

The State Department was chosen by President Carter to make the formal announcement. The administration already has eased some travel and spending restrictions for Americans and has reached a maritime boundaries agreement with President Castro.

Carter decided to proceed with the diplomatic exchange even while Cubans are involved in the internal affairs of Africa. Only a few days ago the State Department confirmed that 50 military technicians had been sent into Ethiopia. A large Cuban force remains in Angola.

The American diplomats will set up an "interest section" within the Swiss embassy in Havana, with a counselor heading the delegation. An equal number of Cubans, probably fewer than a dozen, will be housed in the Czechoslovakian embassy here.

Since the break in relations, the Swiss flag has flown over the former U.S. embassy in the Cuban capital and the Czech flag over the two Cuban buildings here.

Although formal relations may be a long way off, the diplomats will be in charge of a full range of activities between the two countries. U.S. officials said one objective of the exchange is to reunite families who became separated in the 16 years of hostility between the two countries.

Details of the diplomatic exchange were worked out in New York by U.S. and Cuban negotiating teams. Carter said on Tuesday that "we still have a lot of differences between us, but that full friendship" with Cuba was an ultimate goal.

Eisenhower broke relations with the Castro government on Jan. 3, 1961, just 17 days before he left office. Relations had cooled between the two countries after Castro toppled the rightist Batista regime in 1959.

Sunshine law remains intact

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's sunshine law had been kept intact by a legislature unwilling to amend several key sections so more government agencies can meet in private.

Rep. George D. Tablack, D-52 Girard, the sponsor of the "clean-up" measure, blamed adverse publicity and a Republican-liberal Democrat coalition for the 46-41 defeat of the bill Thursday.

"They suggest that it is a gutting of the sunshine law," Tablack said. "We tried to make an honest attempt to clean up some areas that needed cleaning up."

Debate also reached a high pitch across the Statehouse, as the Senate approved 21-10 legislation that would permit the drilling of three exploratory gas wells in the eastern basin of Lake Erie. A ban on all drilling in the lake is not due to end until July 1, 1978.

The bill was sent to the House where some environmentalists are expected to make a last ditch effort to block it.

Tablack's bill, voted out of committee after only two hearings—bills are usually heard at least three times—sought exemptions to an existing state law requiring most state and local government business to be conducted in public. The statute, enacted in 1975, has been dubbed the sunshine law.

Those who violate the law by meeting behind closed doors can see all of their actions invalidated under the complaint process provided. The defeated bill, however, would have opened a loophole, allowing illegal private meetings to be "reenacted" in public to satisfy the law.

House Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, R-83, called the amendment "an open loophole...an invitation, if you will, to violate the present law."

The bill would have added to a laundry list of situations deemed appropriate for private meetings: Court ordered sessions, labor disputes with a public body, acquisition or leasing of land, or when an open meeting would result in "an unwarranted invasion of privacy."

"This is a door swinging wide," Kurfess said of the privacy exception. "Who is going to determine if it is an unwarranted invasion of privacy?"

The bill was proposed by the Ohio State Bar Association and drew no opposition or amendments during committee consideration, Tablack noted.

After the House session, he charged that Kurfess had decided to fight the bill after "recognizing the liberals were against it," a maneuver to embarrass the House Democratic leadership, most of whom supported it.

Kurfess scoffed at the claim and insisted that he had not even been fully aware of the legislation until earlier Thursday when Common Cause lobbied him to oppose it.

Coincidentally, a separate bill, which somewhat shores up the open meetings law, was approved 90-0 by the House and returned to the Senate for consideration of amendments.

Sponsored by Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, the bill requires state agencies to mail, on request, notices of hearings regarding the adoption, altering or abolishment of an agency rule.

Opinion And Comment

Brown on the death penalty

California's Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. is stubborn about the death penalty. He has just vetoed a bill that would have restored it in that state. Though the veto may be overridden, the governor's rationale is of general interest at a time when capital punishment remains a subject of national debate.

As long ago as January, Brown said that "as a matter of conscience" he would reject any death penalty bill. This gets to the heart of the matter.

The chief argument for capital punishment is that it serves as a deterrent to murder. The chief opposing argument - aside from the contention that it violates the Constitution's ban on cruel and unusual punishment - is that legalized murder brutalizes society and diminishes its claim to be civilized.

Though most studies suggest that the death penalty has little deterrent effect, this remains in doubt; one simply cannot be sure. The question comes down to one of basic philosophy and moral outlook. Governor Brown put it this way: "Statistics can be marshaled and arguments propounded, but as some point each of us must decide for himself what sort of future he would want. For me, this would be a society where we do not attempt to use death as a punishment. . . . That is a well considered view worth some reflection.

A WORD EDGEWISE...By John P. Roche

The '65 per cent' rule

The Supreme Court over the years has performed some remarkable feats of statutory construction, but in the recent case concerning the Brooklyn Hasidim it set a new record for garish interpretation. Indeed, I refused to believe the accounts in the papers, waiting for the official report, and now apologize to the journalists: art reflected life. The 7-1 decision is virtually incoherent. Finding out which Justices agreed with each other on what resembles three-dimensional chess. Chief Justice Burger's solitary dissent stands out both for clarity and constitutional cogency.

What emerges from this chaos is a judgment that the Federal Voting Rights Act properly required the state of New York to establish State Senate and Assembly districts in which 65 per cent of the population was black or Puerto Rican. The rationale for this figure - which had been carefully negotiated by state and federal officials (63 per cent wouldn't do) - was that low participation by these minorities had to be offset by enlarging the minority base.

The Hasidim, an Orthodox Jewish sect, were innocent bystanders whose community in the Williamsburg area of Brooklyn was summarily divided into two districts and, annoyed by what they considered racial prejudice, went to court. The Voting Rights Act, they contended, was designed to prohibit purposeful discrimination against minority voters, not to reward electoral lethargy. If the blacks and Puerto Ricans didn't bother to vote, why should they be given a bonus?

You can read the various opinions (and Justice Rehnquist's mind - he didn't even file one) and never get a straight answer to this quite simple question. No one could argue that the legislative seats in Brooklyn had been gerrymandered against minorities, or that black and Puerto Rican voters had been intimidated. Suffice it to say a majority of the Court, for differing reasons, found the current exercise in racial gerrymandering constitutional. An Indian student suggested to me that unconsciously the Justices were adopting the practice of "reserved seats" used in his country. On the theory that Harijans ("untouchables") would not otherwise get elected to Parliament in India, a certain number of seats is reserved for them. One is also reserved for an "Anglo-Indian". A nice touch.

Yet, whatever the logic of the decision may be, the thrust of federal action in New York raises a fundamental issue in democratic theory. To decide that 65 per cent of a district must be black so a black can get 51 per cent of the votes in an election is to assume that race is the axis of political decision, and is to provide the ingredients of racial polarization.

Now it may be true that on election day a black will vote black, but should this be encouraged by the law of the land? To put it differently, isn't coalition the name of the democratic game? Tom Bradley wouldn't be Mayor of Los Angeles or Ed Brooke Senator from Massachusetts - to pick two eminent examples - if Congress and the Supreme Court were to sanctify racial voting.

Let me reiterate: ethnic bloc voting is an old custom. I remember a 1960 election poster in South Boston, listing the Democratic candidates, Irish all, from Jack Kennedy down, and the slogan, "Vote Green!" (John Volpe, an Italo-American Republican won the governorship in a walk!) There has been a good deal of conversation about the "new ethnicity," recently featuring Alex Haley's "Roots," but increasingly Americans have been escaping from the old tribalism. There is nothing, for example, in "Roots" to suggest that Haley would vote for a black reactionary against a white liberal.

What implications does this have for districts in Brooklyn? Rather than the law encouraging tribal or clan voting, I would suggest it aim at generating coalition politics. An ideal district from this viewpoint would be one in which no specific group has a majority so that any candidate - instead of sounding atavistic war-cries like "Vote Green!" - has to reach out to others. This has the additional benefit of encouraging competition, which brings out voters.

Finally, since crucial parts of the Court's decision hinged on the intention of Congress in the Voting Rights Act, the national legislature should decide whether it really wants to enforce "benign" racial gerrymandering with a 65 per cent threshold.

Carter reported grade-A student

NEW YORK (AP) - President Carter was practically a straight-A student who was rarely absent or late, according to his Plains, Ga., grammar and high school records.

The records were furnished Thursday by Bonnie Ginzburg, daughter of publisher Ralph Ginzburg, who edits a new periodical called Extra.

She said they were obtained "through a special request made in our behalf by the President."

The purported photocopies indicate that young Jimmie - as his name was spelled - only once received an academic grade less than A, and that was a C for music in the sixth grade.

His conduct was B-plus or A every year. He was absent only 3 per cent of the time in grammar school and late only 12 times.

"I'M NOT MUCH AT READING, BUT I CAN RECITE 100 COMMERCIALS FROM MEMORY."

Fancy French name covers earthworms

POMONA, Calif. (AP) - Translated into French, and folded in with eggs and cream, earthworms can be passed off as gourmet fare. But according to a fish bait firm, they're even good when swallowed unadorned.

A dish called "Quiche Lorraine avec Ver de Terre," concocted by a fourth-grade teacher from New Jersey, won first prize Wednesday in the second annual Ver de Terre Recipe Contest at California State Polytechnic University.

Ver de terre means earthworm. "Some of the judges were hesitant before they started the judging because they haven't eaten earthworms. But afterward all said they liked them," said John Burke, vice president of the marketing firm for North American Bait Farms, which put on the contest.

"We don't think that earthworms will be on everybody's table," Burke admitted. "But the contest gives us a chance to tell people that earthworms are 73 per cent protein and are low in cholesterol."

Besides, he added, "when you mix them in another recipe, you can hardly taste them. When you eat them plain after boiling them, to me they taste an awful lot like shredded wheat."

Jean Farmer of Bloomington, Ind., won second place for her earthworm bread, and a fourth-grade elementary class from Iowa Falls, Iowa, was third with "Magnificent Mess Cake."

More than 2,000 people entered the contest.

Here are the ingredients from the winning recipe, which was worth $500 to Lynn Remisovsky, 31, of Bayonne, N.J.:

One pie crust, one beaten egg, one cup of evaporated milk, half a teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce, one cup of grated Swiss cheese, a 3 1/2-ounce can of French fried onion rings, nine slices of crisped and crumbled bacon and 16 earthworms, boiled three times.

The City of Mansfield was named for Connecticut-born Col. Jared Mansfield, whom President Thomas Jefferson sent to Ohio to correct mistakes in surveys. The colonel was in Ohio only a brief time, leaving after describing the state "a place of wolves and Indians." - AP

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Blames small bust

for big boy problems

DEAR ABBY: I'm in the seventh grade and I've got a pretty bad problem.

I'm flat-chested and all the boys at school make fun of me and call me "Flatso."

I don't have any boyfriends because what they're looking for I haven't got. Please help me.

DEAR FLATSO: Don't blame the absence of boyfriends on your flatso figure. I hear from boys as well as girls in your age group, and that's not what they're looking for.

The friendly, cheerful, natural girl who makes a boy feel comfortable and confident gets boyfriends. And if you figure it's your figure, you've figured it wrong.

DEAR ABBY: In all the years I've been reading your column, I've never had a letter upset me like the one about the young mother who put a leash on her young son and hitched him to the clothesline.

I am the mother of a very active 2-year-old boy who would not consider it an act of love were he to be tied up. He would feel anger, frustration and humiliation.

I can think of nothing a mother has to do that is so important she has to leave her child to a clothesline!

But even more disturbing is the thought that so many mothers read your column, and you seem to approve of leashing children as though they were animals!

All children need a mother's undivided attention. Please reconsider.

LOVES CHILDREN

DEAR LOVES: My mail is running 10 to 1 in favor of leashing children for their own safety. Please read on:

DEAR ABBY: The letter about keeping a child leashed to a clothesline hit home with me. I have six living children. I would have had seven if I had tied my child to a clothesline. When he was 13 months old, I left him playing in our fenced-in yard. In less than 15 minutes he was nowhere to be seen. I soon discovered that he had unlatched the gate and made his way to the creek that ran behind our house. When he was found, it was too late.

STILL FEELS GUILTY

DEAR ABBY: Apropos using a leash to keep children in tow: My little boy started to walk at 8 months.

One morning I was ironing in my kitchen, and Joey was playing on the floor at my feet. I suddenly realized that Joey wasn't in the room.

We lived on a farm with a railroad track about 100 yards from our front door. Joey had always been fascinated by the sound of the train whistle, and he seemed to know when the train would be passing through.

I first noticed that the front door was open, then I saw that baby running towards the railroad tracks—and the train was coming!

I will never forget my terror. Thank God I got to him in time. You can bet I never allowed Joey out of my sight without a leash again.

When I took him shopping with me, I'd get plenty of icy stares from strangers, but it didn't bother me one bit.

REMEMBERS WELL

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A. Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, June 3, the 154th day of 1977. There are 211 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1621, the Dutch West India Company received a charter for New Netherlands - now New York.

On this date: In 1808, Confederate President Jefferson Davis was born in what is now Todd County, Ky.

In 1937, the Duke of Windsor married Wallis Warfield Simpson of Baltimore, Md., in France.

In 1942, in World War II, Japanese warplanes raided Dutch Harbor, Alaska.

In 1962, 130 people were killed in the crash of an airliner at Paris France, including members of an art group from Atlanta, Ga.

In 1966, a Surveyor 1 spacecraft was relaying back pictures of the Lunar surface after making America's first soft landing on the moon.

In 1973, a Soviet supersonic airliner crashed during an international air show near Paris, killing the six crewmen and seven French villagers.

Ten years ago: Eighty-eight people were killed when a British chartered airliner crashed in the French Pyrenees.

Five years ago: An American air pirate who hijacked a plane over Seattle, then took a second jet, landed in Algiers with $500,000 in ransom.

One year ago: Former President Juan Jose Torres of Bolivia was founded murdered in Argentina.

Today's birthdays: Actor Tony Curtis is 52. Poet Allen Ginsberg is 51.

Thought for today: It is my principle that the will of the majority should always prevail. - President Thomas Jefferson, 1743-1826.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

SATURDAY, JUNE 4

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)

A few "surprises" indicated - some which will please; others which may not. Take all in stride: Things will work out in the long run.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)

Some new suggestions or propositions may be offered. Study each carefully and accept or reject on the basis of enduring worth - not immediate returns.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 2)

Careful analysis, good judgment and understanding of the temperaments of associates will be required to make this a smooth-running day. Not too difficult for the intuitive Gemini!

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)

Unexpected complications may call for a sudden change in travel plans. Don't fret. Trip, as arranged, could have been disappointing.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)

An analytic look at your position may indicate some new avenue to pursue in a tricky domestic situation. In any event, avoid anxiety.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Especially favored now: teachers, students, homemakers. A good day, too, for those engaged in outdoor pursuits.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Look for some changing situations. Be alert, ready to take quick action, and be guided by procedures which have proved successful in the past.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Aspects fairly bright but there may be hidden snags, conditions with which to reckon carefully. No jumping to conclusions! Hear others out fully.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Strategy and common sense will be the biggest factors in making a successful day. THINK your way through complicated situations.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Not a spectacular day, but friendly for personal development; also for experimenting, straightening out complications and making long-range plans.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb. 19)

Try a strategy that worked in the past if a new one is not producing. The right start and "follow through" will keep you master of all situations.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)

An excellent period for inventions, new ideas, new methods and means of approach, making adjustments and dealing in issues pertaining to the future.

YOU BORN TODAY, a typical Gemini, are something of a study in paradoxes. You are imaginative but, at the same time, realistic; impulsive yet, when necessary, will deliberate calmly and with exceptionally good judgment; sentimental about tradition and old friends, yet extremely progressive and always eager to make new friends. You are, therefore, an unusually interesting person, but sometimes a bewildering one to those who do not understand you. You are also extremely versatile and could succeed in almost any field of your choosing, but would probably be happiest in the artistic or intellectual worlds; could excel as a writer, editor, musician, entertainer, promotional or advertising specialist.

Heirs by the Gift of His Spirit

"The Spirit you have received is not a spirit of slavery... but a spirit that makes us sons." — Romans 8: 14

It is one thing to adopt a cute baby, and something else to adopt a half-grown son. The baby is unaware and passive; but although the adoptive parent of an older child takes the initiative, the young person's response is of equal importance. Paul tells us we are not God's slaves, bound to live in fear, but by the gift of His Spirit we are His adopted children, fellow-heirs with Christ, our brother, of all the splendour God can give. Hearing this news after so many lonely, bitter years of struggle to survive, will we hold back in mistrust, or will we dare yield to the spirit of hope and fling ourselves into His arms, crying, "Abba! Father!"

Missionary forces on way up

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The corps of American Protestant missionaries working overseas, which took a slump at the turn of the 1970's, is on the way up again.

The force now totals 37,000, an increase of 8 per cent above 34,000 counted in 1970, when a three-year downturn of 4 per cent was registered.

That had been the first decline in the number of Protestant missionaries since the depression years of the 1930's, but the new summary showed the upward turn.

The figures were reported in the new edition of the Mission Handbook, compiled by the research division of World Vision International, a missions organization of Monrovia, Calif.

It reports there now are 620 Protestant mission agencies working in 182 countries, and that there is a rising trend toward greater use of youths on a short-term basis.

About a fourth of them go on to become career missionaries, says Edward R. Dayton, director of the research center that produces the handbook.

He says 60 per cent of the agencies have developed summer youth programs, and an increasing number now take young people for short-term service.

Besides the 37,000 Protestant missionaries working overseas, there are about 6,500 U.S. Roman Catholics abroad, making a total of 43,500 American missionaries.

Total contributions to mission work in the U.S. and Canada rose from $393 million in 1972 to $656 million in 1975, up 67 per cent, outstripping inflation by 29 per cent.

Although there are 620 mission-sending agencies, most of them are small. More than half the resources are concentrated in 18 big agencies.

Those with the largest number of personnel overseas include:

Wycliffe Bible Translators — 2,693; Southern Baptists — 2,667; Seventh-day Adventists — 1,360; Churches of Christ — 1,296; Assemblies of God — 1,081; Baptist Mid-Missions — 905.

In terms of funds for the cause, Southern Baptists had the biggest budget — $52 million. Next were Seventh-day Adventists, with $25 million and Church World Service of the National Council of Churches, $23.5 million.

The new handbook shows missionaries perform a variety of services, a fourth of them involved in direct communication of Christian teaching, another fourth engaged in helping strengthen national churches.

The other half carry on various work to help indigenous people, ranging from agricultural projects to medical clinics and developing water systems.

Bible school is scheduled

Plans for the Vacation Bible School, at Jeffersonville United Methodist Church have been completed. The school will begin on June 6 and last through June 10. The theme for this year is "Lord Jesus, teach me". All children in the community, ages three through ninth grade, are invited to attend the 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. daily sessions. Children are asked to bring sack lunches. Drinks will be furnished.

A closing program of the Bible School will be held at 7:30 p.m., on June 10, according to this year's director, Elizabeth Satterfield.

Teachers will be Lillian Fisher, Debbie Boysell, Nancy Spears, Lindy Sharrett, Joyce Holguin, Beverly Wilson, Cindy Sharrett, Ruby Snyder, Beth Owens, Millie Lintilic, Melanie Lintilic, Carol Roush, Ann Spahr, Jean Hoppes, Bonny Bentley, Kathy Binegar, Sarah Moore, Shirley Douce, Eva Love, Jeri Park, Linda Morgan, Susan Spahr, Sandi Clawson, Mary Ann Coe, Linda Osterle and Blanche Michael.

Recreation leaders will be Jeff Satterfield and Terry Thompson. Mrs.

Lillie Mae Rings will be the missionary storyteller. Barbara Sears and Sharon Jenkins will be in charge of music. Refreshments will be served by Janet McCarty, Joan Smith and Sandy Jenkins. Dr. Haskel Moore is the pastor of the church.

Evangelist visits

Evangelist Carl Johnson, from West Virginia, will be bringing a series of prophetic messages to the Fayette Bible Church June 5 through June 8.

Mr. Johnson graduated from the Beckley College and from Moody Bible Institute and is the author of 11 books, as well as a musician who has had released a long-playing album of musical selections.

Mr. Johnson was in a pastorate for 14 years on the faculty of a West Virginia College for over seven years, and has conducted Christian Radio programs for 25 years.

He will be speaking three times on Sunday: at 9:30 a.m., 10:45 a.m., and 7:30 p.m. and on Monday Tuesday, and Wednesday evenings, at 7:30.

The public is invited to attend. A love offering will be taken to cover the speaker's expenses. The pastor of the church is the Rev. Denny Howard.

Homecoming set

A weekend meeting and homecoming will be held at the Walnut Hill Church of Christ in Christian Union, Barger Road, Leesburg, on June 9 through June 12, at 7:30 p.m. each evening, and on Sunday at 10:30 a.m. The Rev. David Lattimer, from the Circleville Bible College, will be preaching that morning.

Carnegie Library director speaks to Retired Teachers

Forty-one members and one guest, Mrs. Nancy Cummings of Highland County, were introduced to the director of our Carnegie Public Library, Mr. Eric G. Halverson at the luncheon meeting of the Fayette County Retired Teachers Association in the Terrace Lounge Thursday, June 2.

Mrs. Leonard Watts, program chairman, introduced Mr. Halverson who has been in Washington C.H. just a year. Mrs. Watts' introduction revealed this interesting background of Mr. Halverson: he was born in Billings, Montana; his father is Principal of Crow Indian Agency School; his mother is a Reading Development Teacher; his grandparents were Norwegian immigrants; he attended Hardin, Montana Senior High School, played football and the phonograph; attended the University of Oklahoma, lived football, ate football, slept football, majored in Geography and Education; attended the University of Kentucky, lived basketball, ate basketball, slept basketball, received a M.S. Degree in Library Science. His work experience includes: motel manager, instructor in migrant children program, harvest hand, soldier, janitor, deli manager, assistant chemistry department librarian at the Oklahoma University, Director Big Horn County Public Library in Montana, assistant to Director, Lexington, Kentucky, Public Library; and assistant Director Paducah Public Library. His honors awards are: John Cotton Dana Award for outstanding achievement in Library Public Relations (4th in nation) 1974, Commissioned Honorary Kentucky Colonel by Commonwealth of Kentucky 1976, created Duke of Paducah by City of Paducah, Kentucky 1975.

Mr. Halverson paid tribute to the librarians Miss Elizabeth Johnson, Mrs. P.M. Cook, and Mrs. Paul Strevey who served the community with remarkable service since the library was opened in 1903. Following in their footsteps presents him with a challenge to continue the good service and to maintain serviceable facilities meeting the needs of the varied demands of the community. To this end he is now directing three projects which will work toward meeting his challenge.

The first is the Outreach Project carried out by Mrs. Virgil Dwyer and two names. It was originally given the name of Midway in 1833 because it was on a well traveled road for cattle drives. It was midway between Chicago and Philadelphia. Later a physician came to Midway and was fearful that mail would easily become confused with Medway; therefore, he suggested the name of Sedalia, since this was the village in England from which his ancestors came. Thus, the town adopted Sedalia for their post office name and Midway remained as the town name, as is presently seen on many Ohio maps.

Thus, on Sunday, June 12th, the Presbyterian Church in the village of Midway or Sedalia will serve as the headquarters for the tour, although the public may start their tour at any one of the homes before coming to the church.

CYNTHIA GROVER

recital, in Grace United Methodist Church. Included in her program will be works by Mozart, Ralph Vaughn - Williams, Giorian, Searlatti, Gershwin, Jerome Kern, Rodgers and Hammerstein and Streisand.

Miss Grover, who will enter Ohio State University School of Music in September, was very active in music while at Miami Trace High School. She participated in Symphonic Choir, Folksingers, Marching Band, Symphonic Band, CyndaKated Singers, musicals, and numerous incidental musical activities. She also appeared as the soloist at home basketball games for the past two years. She has also appeared as guest soloist at the Ohio State Fair and organizations in the state. In addition to her many activities while in high school, she maintained honor student status throughout her four years.

Miss Grover will be assisted by Doug Joseph, a student at Southern State University, and will be accompanied on the piano by her voice instructor, Mrs. Rick Stinson.

The public is invited. There is no charge.

ERIC HALVERSON

Mrs. Lillie Lee who make home calls to senior citizens and handicapped individuals, acquainting them with materials such as talking books, large print books, and hanging books which are available for their use. These ladies make return visits to check on the use of the service offered.

The second project is the setting-up of a teletypewriter service for the deaf. Washington C.H. will be the second city outside of Washington D.C. to set-up such a service when the project is completed in August.

The third project, which Mr. Halverson hopes will be completed by October, is the re-wiring of the entire building-the first since 1903-so that the building will meet all building codes and fire laws and make it possible to use new types of equipment. The addition of six inches of insulation plus the lowering of ceilings will noticeably reduce heating bills. A ramp will be built at the back of the building. New carpet, new shelves and fresh paint will be part of the refurbishing.

Mr. Halverson is concerned that a dollar's worth of quality service is provided for each dollar of tax support given to the library.

Mr. Wilson Webb, president, welcomed Mrs. Lucinda Whiteside as a new member.

Mrs. Harry Craig's secretary's report and Mrs. Willard Bitzer's treasurer's report were approved.

Dr. Dwight Ireland extended an invitation to the association for a carry-in supper on Tuesday, July 12 at his Cedarhurst cottage. The association will furnish the meat and rolls and Mr. Ireland will furnish the coffee and tea. Guests are welcome after 4 o'clock with supper between 5:30 and 6:00 p.m.

Mr. Webb and Mr. Kenneth Craig, Legislative Chairman, emphasized the importance of members' writing to members of the Senate Finance Committee. Concerning an Appropriation to Improve Retirement Benefits. Members who were not present at the meeting may obtain information concerning this legislation from Mr. Webb or Mr. Craig.

The Association voted unanimously to amend the constitution to meet the requirement for being affiliated with the National Retired Teachers Association that four meetings be held each year.

Introducing COLOR SENTRY™
The Automatic Picture Control System

COLOR SENTRY—The Automatic Picture Control System—includes all five of the following essential picture control circuits, working together.

1. Light Sensor. An "electronic eye" and associated control circuit automatically adjust picture brightness for comfortable viewing—in low light, bright light, any light.
2. Color Signal Monitor. An electronic circuit automatically checks the incoming color signal and adjusts for over-saturation from moment to moment, scene to scene.
3. Tint Stabilizer. A special electronic circuit automatically balances colors to provide lifelike flesh tones.
4. Color Level Lock. An electronic circuit automatically locks in pre-programmed color levels. This circuit works with the Color Signal Monitor and the Tint Stabilizer to maintain pleasing color saturation and tint as programming changes.
5. Contrast Regulator. An electronic circuit automatically maintains pre-set light-to-dark picture contrast. As a result, dramatic highlights seen by the camera are faithfully reproduced.

Note: The Color Sentry System is featured on all 25" diagonal models and selected 19" diagonal models. See Feature Guides.

Gandhi's son loses license

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Civil aviation authorities have grounded former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's son Sanjay, his wife Menaka, and a Sanjay crony and guru, Dharendra Brahmachari.
The government Thursday gave no reason for the immediate six-month suspension of Sanjay's private pilot's license and the student licenses of the other two.
India's new government had already impounded the couple's passports pending the outcome of charges Sanjay improperly used his mother's position to further his own financial and political interests.

Scholastic achievement test winners at WSHS announced

Individual winners from Washington Senior High School in the Ohio Department of Education's scholastic achievement tests were announced today by Donald Gibbs, a high school counselor.

More than 21,000 participants, representing over 650 Ohio secondary schools, entered both individual and team competition in 16 different subject areas. Washington Senior high School had a total of 64 students participating.

All participating schools were divided into one of three divisions on the basis of the school's enrollment in grades 9-12.

Toni Welch, a freshman at Washington Senior High School, placed seventh in the state in general science and fourth in the division.

Other winners from Washington Senior High School were:

Debbie Kingery, honorable mention in district in biology; Kurt Smith, 13th in district in biology; Kim Elcess, 18th in the state in Algebra II and eighth in district; Gary Fisher, honorable mention in district in American History; Duane Six, honorable mention in district in American History; Rebecca Wheat, 15th in district in senior social studies; Paul Lockman, 17th in state and seventh in district in senior social studies, and Jo Leggett, honorable mention in district in English II.

Patrol chief lauds CB'ers for safe holiday weekend

COLUMBUS — Col. Adam G. Reiss, Ohio Highway Patrol superintendent, today complimented citizens band radio operators throughout the state for their contributions in making Ohio a safer state during the Memorial Day holiday period.

Troopers credited CB radio reports with reducing response time to several accidents and identifying intoxicated drivers who were apprehended before being involved in accidents.

Col. Reiss pointed out that Ohio Highway Patrol officers assisted or arranged transportation to hospitals for 14 persons who became ill on Ohio roads during the weekend. Across the state CB'ers summoned troopers to locations where persons had passed out or become ill. In one case, a victim had fallen and broken a leg at a roadside park. In all 14 cases the victims were listed in satisfactory or better condition. Most were released from hospitals the same day they were admitted.

In one case, on U.S. 22 in Muskingum County, a Zanesville resident suffering from a possible appendicitis attack used his CB radio to call for assistance. A trooper enroute home after his tour of duty heard the call, responded quickly to the scene, and transported the motorist to the hospital.

Col. Reiss also recognized REACT and various service organizations who provided coffee to motorists in rest areas along interstate highways. "This service encourages motorists to take a break from driving before returning to the road refreshed and better able to finish the trip", Col. Reiss said.

In thanking CB radio operators, Col. Reiss stressed their "awareness of emergencies, and attitude of cooperation during the holiday period".

Bills boost local unit authority

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two Democrat-sponsored bills increasing authority of local government officials have advanced in the General Assembly.

The House approved 81-0 a bill sponsored by Rep. Thomas J. Carney, D-71 Boardman, that would permit township trustees to purchase group life insurance for township officers.

The seemingly innocuous measure was needed to grant authority to townships, which lack implied powers and often need a state law to carry out routine programs.

By a 74-17 vote, state representatives backed a measure permitting county commissioners to sell or lease county-owned machinery, tools or other equipment to other government units.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. M. Morris Jackson, D-21 Cleveland, was returned to the Senate for consideration of amendments. Carney's bill was also sent to the Senate.

Before adjourning for the week, the upper chamber approved 21-10 a proposed constitutional amendment which would allow the legislature to divide Ohio's 88 counties into classes for the enactment of laws affecting only certain regions of the state.

Sponsoring Sen. Kenneth R. Cox, D-28 Barberton, said the amendment, which still needs House approval before being placed on the November ballot, was recommended by the Ohio Constitutional Revision Commission.

What's new at the library?

Book nook

By ERIC HALVERSON
Library Director

The fads in the world of automobiles seem to change with each new decade. During the years after World War II, Americans embarked on a love affair with any new car so long as it was new. The 1950s saw the trend toward fins and chrome followed by the muscle cars of the 1960s. The nineteen seventies have been the years of "personal" transportation, and the most personal of transportation has been the van.

The van has become the fastest growing segment of the new vehicle market. The trend began back in the late sixties as bearded and beaded hippies took to the open road in clapped out and ancient VW micro buses. The country wasn't ready for their life style but their transportation ideas were another story. Soon custom shops, accessory dealers and now even the auto giants were into vans in a big way. Even at long last book publishers are aware (although "Hot Rod Magazine" promoted the first Van National way back in 1972) that something is stirring; witness:

"Customizing Your Van" by Allan Girdler; "Chilton's Repair & Tune-Up Guide" - Ford Vans; "Chilton's Repair & Tune-Up Guide" - GMC-Chevrolet Vans; and "Chilton's Repair & Tune-Up Guide" - Dodge Vans.

"Customizing" is the important book. A domestic van is a nice big box with mobility added almost as an afterthought. The first van was introduced in 1961 and it didn't take the public long to discover that what a mobile box needs is style!

This book is a starting point from which to travel in several directions in search of style. A van conversion, like style, is a personal project, so it follows that each persons project is different from all others. At the same time there are guidelines and plans that apply to all or most vans.

The book features detailed looks for the most part, with step-by-step instructions on how each project was done by the builder and can be done by the reader. It won't tell you everything you may want to know but it is great for inspiration, not limitation. Take the ideas you like and discard or substitute others for the ones you don't and soon you will have a unique custom van. (Customizing Your Van Tab Books Blue Ridge Summit, Pa. 1977)

SPARKS & SPLINTERS 4-H

The sixth meeting of the Sparks and Splinter 4-H Club was held at Doug and Jay Johnson's house in Madison Mills on Thursday, May 26th at 7 p.m.

The meeting began with a tour of the Mt. Sterling Plastic Plant. Souvenir plastic plates, cups and bowls were given to the club members.

The business meeting was held at the Johnson house with the 4-H Pledge given by Larry Camp. Mr. R. Bishop opened the meeting and the secretary's report was given by Danny Hestle.

The Safety report was given by Ted Bishop, and a discussion was held concerning the sale of desk and road markers.

The next meeting will be held at Geoff Von Barga's house on Thursday, June 9th, at 7:30 p.m. The meeting was adjourned with a motion by Doug Johnson and seconded by Ted Bishop. Refreshments and a recreation period followed.

A-OK 4-H CLUB

The meeting of the A-OK 4-H Club was held in the home of the Petersons, and called to order by Ben Stockwell. Members responded to roll call by naming a season of the year.

Polly Hoyler's health report was entitled "What food you should eat." Robin Langley's safety report was entitled "Poisons."

The next club meeting will be held at the home of Amy and Ben Stockwell at 7 p.m. June 7.

Following adjournment, the refreshments were served by Mrs. Peterson.

FANCY FARMERS 4-H

The Fancy Farmers 4-H Club met at Jimmy Chaney's home. The meeting was called to order by Mike Bryant, president. Reports were heard and a safety report was made by Andy Merriman. We discussed the Camp Clifton donation.

Members were asked to bring the hazard slips, filled out, to the next meeting, which will be at 8 p.m. June 7 in the home of the Sollars family.

We had refreshments.

You have to take pains if you want a nice garden . . . especially in your back.

There's a new gasoline with bourbon in it. It still gives off exhaust fumes, but who cares.

We hope that the insects take over the world, they'll remember with gratitude how we took them along on all our picnics.

Buzz over to Car-Shine. It's a whole new world when you see it from your car that has just been washed and waxed.

Darkness, smoke main fire story

CINCINNATI (AP) — Survivors of the Beverly Hills Supper Club fire are unburdening themselves by telling stories of being overwhelmed by "darkness and the sound of screaming crowds," a psychiatrist says.

"They all talk of intense heat and the screaming, shoving crowd and darkness and of choking. Many of them felt it was the end. To them, it was like death," said Dr. James Titchener of the University of Cincinnati.

He is working with a team of psychiatrists, psychologists and social workers aiding the survivors and relatives of the 161 victims of Saturday night's fire at the posh night club.

Titchener said many of those people recalled feeling they would not make it out of the nightclub.

"Many people felt they were already dead," Titchener said. "They recall they just laid down and someone just pulled them out and saved them."

"I've heard stories of husbands lying down beside their wives or stretching out their hands and someone yanked them to safety. It is one of the most frequent stories that we have heard."

Nine clinics around Cincinnati have handed "dozens of calls" from people who want to talk about their experiences.

"It's perfectly normal for people to want to run from the experience for awhile," said Titchener. "All of these people—to one degree or another—have experienced the nearness of death. They have all experienced some loss."

The critical question, according to Titchener, is whether after three-to-12 months the survivors will be able to resume a normal life and work.

His aircraft was shot down over Vienna, Austria, and he was held as a prisoner of war by the Germans for seven months.

Survey discloses interesting results

Wilmington College sophs questioned

WILMINGTON, Ohio — More than twice as many Wilmington College sophomores today enjoy finding themselves in competitive situations than did sophomores at the college four years ago.

And very few of them are bullish about the old-fashioned bull-session. A questionnaire given to sophomores at Wilmington College near the conclusion of the spring quarter came up with these findings, and others.

The survey indicates, for example, that more sophomores at Wilmington College today worry about finances than did sophomores in any of the four previous springs.

Interestingly, Wilmington College's tuition next fall will be exactly what it was in the fall of 1974, $2,340 for a normal three-quarter academic year. But in the spring of 1974, only 17 per cent of the Wilmington College sophomores said finances were their biggest worry. Today the figure is 30 per cent.

More sophomores today feel that the welfare state destroys initiative, according to the survey.

The survey also indicates that more Wilmington College sophomores are finding their course work interesting and enjoyable.

And it shows that more than half of them have been able to develop close personal relationships with two or more faculty members. Such relationships are a traditional source of pride for small colleges and the survey indicates that Wilmington students have been finding it to be a reality.

The single biggest worry today for Wilmington College sophomores is finances. In the spring of 1973 the single biggest sophomore concern was in "finding themselves."

In 1973, 22 per cent of the sophomores said that finding themselves was their biggest worry. Today, eight per cent feel that way.

As for the welfare state and initiative, in the spring of 1973, 48 per cent of the sophomores agreed with the statement that the welfare state destroys initiative. Today, that number has increased to 78 per cent.

And today, 42 per cent of the Wilmington College sophomores say they enjoy competitive situations whereas in 1973, only 20 per cent said they liked competition.

The survey is one of several conducted throughout the academic year at Wilmington College by its office of institutional research, directed by Lewis R. Marcuson.

Wilmington College is a private, co-educational liberal arts college affiliated with the Religious Society of Friends (Quaker). It has an average on-campus enrollment of about 700.

The survey also indicates some other changes in thought among sophomores over recent years.

In 1973 Wilmington College sophomores felt by a ratio of three-to-one that students should choose their own curriculum, or course of study.

Today 59 per cent of the sophomores feel students should choose their own curriculum, while 41 per cent feel the faculty should do it. The ratio favoring student selections thus has dropped to about three-to-two.

Another question about finances showed that parents have been decreasing steadily as a major source of money for students.

In the spring of 1973, 54 per cent of the Wilmington sophomores said that parents were the main source of their financial support.

That percentage has dropped each year until now only 31 per cent of the students say that parents are their main financial support.

Loans and governmental assistance have increased steadily as major financial support props for the students.

The survey also possibly signaled the demise of one popular collegiate institution almost as old as college life itself — the bull-session.

When asked to list their greatest satisfaction at the college this year, almost no sophomores listed the bull-session.

But perhaps all is not lost in this regard. In the spring of 1974, few sophomores listed the bull-session either. Last year 11 per cent did so.

Thus it may be that the bull-session, like the stock market, has its ups and downs from year to year.

USDA raps report of milk price gouge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department disagrees with Justice Department claims that federal price supports, marketing orders and dairy cooperatives have resulted in milk surpluses and higher costs to consumers.

The USDA comments were in answer to a report issued Jan. 17 by Justice's antitrust division. It was sent to Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell late last week by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

In his letter to Bell, Bergland said USDA's comments "vigorously question certain of the report's premises and conclusions relating to cooperatives and the marketing order program."

Basically, federal marketing orders set minimum prices that must be paid farmers for their milk in specific areas. The orders are intended, the USDA report said, "to provide a better marketing system than would otherwise prevail."

The Justice report said that a premise underlying antitrust laws is that "a competitive market is superior to a regulated one, that regulations should be the least restrictive possible and that competitive behavior should not be feared but welcomed."

USDA said that agriculture in general and dairy production in particular cannot be viewed in such a narrow light.

"Congress, upheld by the courts, has provided certain legislative exemptions to the antitrust laws for agricultural producers," the department said.

Stookey not planning sudden retirement

Veteran jeweler isn't complaining after nearly six decades of work

By CINDI PEARCE
Record-Herald Staff Writer

Fifty-seven years is a long time to do any one thing exclusively. But, Otis T. Stookey, who has been a watchmaker and jeweler for 57 years, isn't complaining. In fact, he has immensely enjoyed nearly six decades in the watchmaking and jewelry profession.

Recently, the 82-year-old Stookey moved from the southside of the Fayette Cinema Building, which currently houses Sounds Unlimited. He operated his business in the building for 27 years. Prior to moving into the S. Fayette Street building in 1950, Stookey's Jewelry Co., was located for three years in a building situated on what is now the parking lot next to Sounds Unlimited.

A lifetime resident of Fayette County, Stookey apparently has a passion for making things, be it a watch or an airplane. He's done both. In 1918, before attending school in Cincinnati where in four years he received his certification as a master watch technician and diamond setter, Stookey built a mono-plane. "I flew that plane all around this part of the country and I'm still living to my surprise," he chuckled.

He only had one close call while navigating his homemade plane. "I was landing and I got the tail caught in a barbed wire fence, and then the propeller broke and I went through the windshield." The results? "I got a bit scratched up."

Not too long ago, a man who had seen Stookey flying his craft back in 1918, asked the watchmaker if he'd ride in that airplane now if he had it. "I told him 'no.' Back in them times, I had more nerves than sense and now I have more sense than nerves!" Stookey laughed.

Stookey's shop is now located at 236 Library Plaza, in the alley behind the Carnegie Public Library. His new location is bigger and "more suitable for my business. The other place was just a hall you might say."

He was an official watch inspector for the C & O Railroad Co., which is now owned by the B & O Railroad Co., for about 40 years. Stookey says his business is better than ever because there aren't that many watchmakers and diamond setters.

He became interested in this field as a teenager and worked for Burt Ellis, a former jeweler in Washington C.H. "The younger class just simply won't settle down and do this kind of work. It's too tedious for them. They want activity. In this job you have to sit down and behave yourself," Stookey said.

It is a detailed job, too. The small watches and diamonds and other articles of jewelry on which Stookey works require precise, meticulous handling. Stookey's 82-year-old eyes are still in top notch shape, which is a must for any good watchmaker. He only wears glasses for reading, but, like all jewelers, he depends on his "third eye" (a monocle) when working on jewelry.

Stookey, 1215 S. Fayette St., said the watchmaking and repairing trade was formerly a Saturday night job. "Washington C.H. was a Saturday night town and I used to do more business on Saturdays after supper than I did all the rest of the week."

Stookey can make any part to any watch. "That's my trade." He said jokingly that the only requirements for becoming a watchmaker are "good eye sight, good steady nerves, a lot of patience and no brains and you can do it."

The technician said the most difficult watch to repair is the Waltham and the easiest to fix are Elgins and Hamiltons. He prefers working on "good watches" as opposed to cheap, or "bad watches". He explained that the value of a watch is indicated by how many jewels (bearings) it contains. The wheels in a watch turn on the bearings and Stookey said the number of jewels, running the gamut from 23 (a good, expensive watch) to seven (a cheap, poor watch) determine "the life of your watch".

Stookey said most railroad workers carry pocket watches, although some are using wrist watches now, and it is imperative that their watches be accurate. "If their watches were just a few minutes off it might cause a wreck." Railroad employees use Elgin watches, Stookey said, as well as Walthams and Hamiltons.

"You'd be surprised how many people still carry the old pocket watches", but noted that most people buy wrist watches. "It's sort of shifted into wrist watches now. I'd say the Hamilton or Elgin were the best wrist watches", Stookey remarked.

Stookey's only son, Coyt, who is the official weather observer in the Washington C.H. area, also attended watchmaking school and works with his father in their store which is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Remarking that he's never considered going into another profession, the watchmaker said, "I just stuck to it. I like it and it keeps me busy."

Much like the decrease of watchmakers in the U.S., Stookey said there is also a decrease in watch companies in the nation. "Most of them have closed up. The labor unions have run 'em out. Now they're shipping in European parts (for watches). Cheap watches are flooding this country. It's a shame the way they rob people on that junk. Now they assemble the watches in this country, but they get the parts from Europe."

Things may have changed somewhat in the watchmaking profession since Stookey first took it up in 1920, but one thing is for sure, as long as there is time and long as Stookey has "my eye sight and my health", Stookey's Jewelry Co. will exist.

City gets 3.51 inches

Precipitation below normal during May

Precipitation recorded in Washington C.H. during the month of May was slightly below normal. It was the fifth straight month in which rainfall has been below normal.

Statistics kept by Coyt A. Stookey, official Washington C.H. weather observer, disclosed that 3.51 inches of precipitation were received during the month. The 3.51-inch total was .30 of an inch below the established average of 3.81 inches for the 31-day period.

Stookey reported that precipitation in Washington C.H. last April totaled only 1.73 inches.

Actual precipitation, in the form of rain or snow, through the first five months of 1977 has totaled only 12.78 inches, according to Stookey's statistics. The 12.78-inch total is 4.63 inches below the established over-the-years average of 17.41 inches for the months of January, February, March, April and May.

Stookey said precipitation was recorded on just eight of May's 31 days, ranging from 1.24 inches on May 2 to .06 of an inch on May 5.

The official Washington C.H. weather observer measured 2.93 inches of the 3.51-inch in a seven-day period from May 2 through May 8. Following an .08 of an inch rainfall on May 8, the Washington C.H. area did not receive any precipitation until May 25.

Maximum daily temperatures recorded by Stookey at his 134 E. Ohio Ave., weather station ranged from a high of 88 degrees on May 19 and May 20 to a low of 59 degrees on May 10. Minimum daily temperatures ranged from a high of 65 degrees on five days to a low of 40 degrees on May 8.

Here are the actual Washington C.H. precipitation figures for 1977 as compared with the established averages:

	Act.	Avg.
January	1.55	3.38
February	.72	2.24
March	3.70	3.99
April	3.30	3.99
May	3.51	3.81
Total	12.78	17.41

Stand-in contestant wins $130,000 prize

CLEVELAND (AP) — Gary M. Pickett, a groundskeeper at Findlay College, sat at home with his mother watching on TV as a stand-in won $130,000 for him in the Ohio lottery Thursday night.

And the 38-year-old Pickett said he expects to do the same thing next week, when he gets another chance at the Pot O'Gold, which offers prizes up to $250,000 each week.

"Might as well go with a winning combination," Pickett told the Associated Press by telephone.

Pickett, who is unmarried, said he lives alone with his mother, Gladys, about 20 miles from the college. His father has been dead for 10 years, Pickett said.

How did he like the TV show? "Pretty nice," said Pickett.

Asked what he plans to do with his winnings, Pickett said he probably will "do some traveling and bank some of it."

Last week's big winner, Harold Spro of Defiance, won $8,100 to add to the $40,000 he won on his first try.

The $50,000 TV Bonus prize was won by Donald Rhoades of Doylestown. The $10,000 second prize in the TV Bonus drawing went to Vince Sartz of Columbus. Betty Marshall of Warsaw won the $5,000 third prize.

Other Pot O'Gold winners included Christine Vance of Paulding, $9,500; Ann M. Eaton, Cleveland, $7,900; Beverly Heiss, Carleton, Mich., $8,500; and David Garretson, Marietta, $8,200.

Numbers pulled in the weekly number drawing were 376; 884; 88557.

Sirhan seeks visit to hotel kitchen

SOLEDAD, Calif. (AP) — Sirhan Sirhan says a return visit to the kitchen of the Ambassador Hotel might help him remember the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

"He keeps trying to visualize it, and he can't," said Sirhan's lawyer, Godfrey Isaac. "He wants to know himself, did he, or did he not kill Senator Kennedy?"

Sirhan's request to visit the Los Angeles hotel came during a three-hour meeting with two Los Angeles County Supervisors.

Kenneth Hahn and Baxter Ward traveled to Soledad Prison in Central California Thursday at Sirhan's invitation. They were the first officials to question him since he was convicted of the Kennedy killing in 1969.

Sirhan, gun in hand, was grabbed as Kennedy fell in the Ambassador kitchen on June 5, 1968. The senator had just claimed victory in California's primary for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Sirhan has insisted ever since that he remembers nothing between the time he entered the hotel to the time he was pinned to a steam table by his captors. He held to that position on Thursday.

"I tried to ask him several times about his motive," Hahn said as he left the prison. "I asked if anyone else was involved — that's the big question. He said 'I can't remember. I can't remember.'"

The county board of supervisors has been investigating the Sirhan case for some time, trying to determine whether anyone else might have motivated or helped the Palestinian refugee.

"There is a blank in Sirhan's mind," Hahn said. "If we could uncover that, we might have the clue to many of these mysteries."

Hahn and Ward said they believe it might be worthwhile to have Sirhan hypnotized.

Isaac said he would visit Sirhan again in a week to discuss the possibility of further psychiatric treatment and hypnosis. But he said it would take a court order to bring Sirhan back to the murder scene.

"There is still more to be known," said Hahn. "The investigation is not through. I hope we can have the medical authorities pull back the curtain in his mind."

Sirhan is eligible for parole in 1985, and his lawyer said he wants to "make peace with society."

"He'd like to cooperate," Isaac said. "He wants to live."

Local residents are reminded that registration and evaluation for a summer speech therapy program will be held from 8 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 to 4 p.m. at Eastside Elementary School. The six-week therapy session will begin June 13 at Eastside Elementary School and will be conducted by Jocelyn Gillen, the speech therapist of the Washington C.H. School District. The program is being sponsored by the Fayette County Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Olive honor roll

Head teacher David Krupla of the Olive Elementary School has announced the sixth grade honor roll and honorable mention list for the final six-week grading period of the school year.

Four students, Cynthia Dealley, Teresa Gross, Kim McCane, and Mike Noble, all had 4.00 grade point averages. Also listed on the honor roll were Brigitte Dillard, Matt Huffman, and Lisa Wagner.

Sandy Speakman, Gloria Pauley, and Joe Turley were on the honorable mention list.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — On public TV tonight in many cities, the Public Broadcasting Service is airing a 60-minute documentary with the provocative title, "Guess Who's Pregnant?"

Made by station WTTW in Chicago, it studies the increase in pregnancy among unwed teen-age girls in America, public attitudes toward that and sex education, and what is or isn't being done about the problem.

According to Michael Hirsh, who co-produced and wrote the show with Elaine Goldstein, the program had its origins in a radio talk show he hosts once a month on ABC-owned WLS in Chicago.

Teen-age sex was the topic of one show he did last summer, he said, and "it became apparent from the calls I'd get that kids are sexually active at younger and younger ages, at 14 and 15 years old."

"And they were incredibly ignorant," he added, citing as an example one teen-aged girl who called to ask: "Is it true you can't get pregnant if you make love standing up?"

"So I went back to WTTW and said, 'We've got to do something about this,'" he said.

It led to a local pilot show on teen-aged sex, then a full-scale documentary costing $80,000, half paid from WTTW's funds, half from an outfit called the Van Ameringen Foundation, Hirsh said.

The work began by probing government statistics on teen-age pregnancies, which showed that one in 10 American girls will become pregnant this year, he said, or a million girls between 15 and 19.

He said the show also visited four school districts in the Washington, D.C., area, a family planning clinic in the Bronx, N.Y., and interviewed two teen-age mothers — one from a white, middle-class family in Fairfax, Va., the other from a poor black family on Chicago's South Side.

Unlike "V.D. Blues," a documentary about venereal disease PBS aired several years ago, "Guess Who's Pregnant" uses no songs or comedy bits specifically created to make various points in the show.

Farm weather still lacking moisture

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here is the agriculture weather advisory for Ohio provided by the National Weather Service:

High pressure is now firmly entrenched over the Ohio Valley. As this system drifts southeastward, surface winds will become southerly, returning warmer and more humid air to the state.

The next front will be nearing Ohio late in the weekend, bringing with it the next best chance for rainfall.

Field Operations — There were some short delays in field activities Thursday due to the light rainfall over northeastern sections of the state. Reported rainfall amounts were light. Working conditions will remain cool, but surface winds will lighten somewhat as the center of high pressure drifts across the state. Evaporative losses will also remain slightly slower, averaging near 15 hundredths of an inch daily. Conditions will be good for cultivation, for weed control, side dressing with liquid nitrogen and for late seeding. Soils remain extremely dry in the germination zone and depth adjustments may be required.

Wheat Ripening — Development of the wheat crop has been fast. Maturity is quickly approaching in southern sections of the state. The return to warmer, dry weather will cause wheat grain moisture to decrease very fast. Once maturity is reached, dry sown will be rapid. The moisture content of the grain will fall 3 to 5 per cent per day until grain moisture reaches near 18 per cent. From there to the 13 per cent mark, daily falls will be 2 to 3 per cent. After nearing the 13 per cent mark,

Skies clear over lakes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Skies were clear over much of the upper Great Lakes this morning but temperatures were lower than is usually expected in early June. There was scattered frost over Wisconsin and Michigan.

Showers and occasional thunderstorms persisted along the eastern coastal states. More showers and thunderstorms were scattered from western portions of the Plains to the upper Mississippi Valley.

Outspoken lawmaker says Ohio's oldsters abusing privileges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Outspoken Rep. Fred B. Hadley thinks that at least some of Ohio's senior citizens are abusing privileges being sent their way by government officials.

Hadley promptly concedes that the majority probably deserve lower cost bus rides, property tax exemptions and some other fringes made possible by various levels of government.

But during a recent debate in the House, Hadley, R-79 Bryan, surprised some of his colleagues with observations about use of the Golden Buckeye Card, an Ohio benefit under which citizens 65 and older purchase merchandise from cooperating merchants at discounts up to 10 per cent.

He said in his own northwest Ohio area, some senior citizens have used their cards to purchase items for married sons and daughters and their families.

The seven-term House member, himself 65, said he also thinks it unfair that some groups are picketing merchants who haven't volunteered to be a Golden Buckeye participants. Many, he said, "are young people operating on a small profit, trying to get started."

Hadley added that "a lot of these people are retired executives."

The debate came on a bill that would include Ohio's disabled and handicapped citizens in the Golden Buckeye program, which the House passed and sent to the Senate 77-9.

Hadley was among the nine "no" votes, indicating he feared the same types of abuses among that portion of the population.

education (27 per cent)," Gillmore said.

The question of the death penalty for certain crimes drew a 78 per cent favorable response, compared to 48 per cent six years ago.

But nearly the same percentage, 76.4 per cent, favor state registration of handguns, and environmental concern was evidence by 69.1 per cent approving of a ban on nonreturnable bottles.

Attack rabbit guards office

NEW YORK (AP) — The ASPCA is warning burglars that the animal society's Manhattan offices are guarded by a watchrabbit. That's right, a watchrabbit. His name is Harvey and he is not to be messed with.

Harvey is a trained attack rabbit whose unidentified owner handed him over to officials of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals 10 days ago after he bit six people.

ASPCA Executive Director Gordon Wright says the animal society then turned Harvey over to the Department of Health, which held him for observation before releasing him back to the ASPCA.

Wright says Harvey is not up for adoption because "we don't adopt out attack animals."

"In the case of the attack rabbit, we will probably keep it — to protect our premises," Wright said.

Harvey is described as an "adult-sized gray and white rabbit."

"He's very cranky. He does not have a nice disposition," Wright says, adding that Harvey acts up and bites once a person gets "within hopping distance."

Wright says it is not clear whether Harvey will have to be licensed under a new city law mandating the licensing of attack animals. "There aren't too many attack rabbits around," he notes.

Interest in environmental affairs dropped among teenagers, while sentiment favoring the death penalty increased, at least according to a survey of high school students in the district of Sen. Paul E. Gillmor, R-2 Port Clinton.

Gillmore polled 1,500 students from 18 high schools in eight northwestern Ohio counties earlier this year.

In 1971 in a similar poll, Gillmor said he found 60 per cent of the students thought environmental protection should be government's No. 1 priority.

"While this year, 23 per cent still feel environmental protection should receive the highest priority, it has fallen behind both controlling government spending (27 per cent) and aid to

The Point After

By MARK REA

Like it or not, girls sports are here to stay. Personally, I think I like it. I was a little more than skeptical when the springtime came and there was talk about girls track and softball. But, no longer do girls sports merit only a small hole at the bottom of the sports page.

Girls sports are becoming an institution in high school sporting circles. The Ohio High School Athletic Association (OHSAA) now sponsors girls basketball state tournaments just like the boys.

Closer to home, our own Clarence A. Christman, Jr. Award broke the lines this year with the nomination of three girls for the award.

I found, like so many others will find, that burying your head in the sand will not make girls sports go away. They are here and they are here to stay.

Anyone that has seen the trophy that the South Central Ohio League gave the Miami Trace girls track for the SCOL championship should know that girls sports are no longer small potatoes.

The girls put a lot of effort into winning and they want to win very badly. They took the loss to Greenfield McClain very hard in 1976 and vowed they's back in '77.

Back they came and they steamrolled all comers and then edged out the Tigers for the league crown more than a month ago. And they did it with only four seniors.

Gail Camstra, Cassandra Delay, Christy Stockwell and Patty Ulloa meant a lot of points to the girls. But, think of who will be back in uniform.

Vicki Bennett will return. She specializes in the tiring 220-yard dash and the long jump. She set the SCOL record in the long jump as a sophomore and that mark is still on the league books.

VICKI BENNETT
Returns with importance

Cherri Hixon, whose expertise in throwing a shot put gave Trace needed points in the field events, will return next season.

Bennett and Hixon will be seniors next year.

Then there are Laura Bailey and Tammy Arnold. Bailey, like Bennett, excels in running and field events. She likes the grueling 440-yard dash and exhibits excellent form in the high jump. She also set the MT record for the 80-yard hurdles as a freshman.

Arnold, 100-yard dash and relay team speedstar, will also return. Arnold got off to a slow start this season and lost her school record in the 100. But, she regained a spot in the record books in the final meet of the year with the 400-yard relay team.

Both Bailey and Arnold will only be juniors next season.

And, that still leaves the likes of Tia Smith, Teresa Dean, Debbie Brennan and Nancy Elzroth who will be sophomores. They have three more years to look forward to.

Track is a serious sport and the girls are serious about it. They all work out a tremendous amount and realize that recognition is not one of the things that will come easy.

The team is what they're working for. That's what makes Vicki Bennett run farther than some people drive. That's what makes Cherri Hixon heave a shot until her arm is numb.

Perhaps Trace track coach Suellen Radabaugh said it best: "You have all worked hard and I know you thought some of the things I asked of you were not much fun. You have a great challenge next year because all the schools will be out to beat the best and you are the best. Think in terms to do your best not only for yourself, but also for the team."

Teamwork. Isn't that what sports, boys sports and girls sports are really all about?

Watson, Eastwick the latest culprits

Reds blow 3-0 ninth inning lead

CINCINNATI (AP) — "I'm quite sure the World Champions are not going to lay down and play dead for us, even though we took three from them in Houston," said Astros first baseman Bob Watson.

Watson, who said the Astros offense had not been what it should this season, had four hits including a tremendous three-run home run wallop tying the score 3-3 in the ninth inning.

Watson also managed to hit Reds pitcher Jack Billingham with a line drive in the second inning, causing his leg to stiffen and Billingham had to leave the game with one out in the ninth while pitching scoreless ball.

Relief pitcher Rawly Eastwick, who gave up the tying homer in the ninth was upset by the boos from the stands.

"The front-running people just don't understand," said Eastwick, who has made only two appearances in 13 days. "I need more work. I don't know whether it's because I haven't signed my contract or what, but I have to work."

"No, no, no," said Reds Manager Sparky Anderson. "I simply wouldn't do that to a player." The Reds, behind Billingham's 8-1-3 scoreless innings, held a 3-0 lead going into the ninth.

"I simply thought Jack had had it when I took him out when I did," said Anderson.

The Astros broke the game open in the 11th inning when Art Howe, hitting his third consecutive double, drove home Watson and Enos Cabell, taking a 6-3 lead.

The Reds came back with a run in the bottom of the inning with singles by George Foster, Dave Concepcion and Dan Driessen. Watson fielded Cesar Geronimo's hard grounder down the first base line, tagged out Driessen before he ran and stepped on the base for a game-ending double play.

"I think the man—Driessen—got confused," said Watson. "I took a swipe at him on the shoulder, double play, we win. I guess he got confused, maybe thought it was a foul ball."

The loss dropped the Reds a full 10 games back of the National League Western Division-leading Los Angeles Dodgers, who were idle.

The Astros and Reds meet tonight in the second of a four game series.

SCOL CHAMPIONS — The Miami Trace baseball team capped off the 1976-77 high school season by becoming the fourth Panther varsity squad to win an SCOL championship. The baseball trophy will go alongside the football,

Archer looking for Kemper comeback

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — It was something of an old refrain from George Archer.

"I'm still trying. It's coming along. It's getting better," he said after a six-under-par 66 had given him a one-stroke lead Thursday in the first round of the $250,000 Kemper Open Golf Tournament.

But big George has been saying the same thing for two years, ever since an operation on his left wrist almost ruined his career.

He never complained.

"It's getting better," he responded to questions during those months he was trying to fight his way back to respectability.

"Coming along," he'd say after missing the cut.

There were no complaints. But he almost left the tour.

"I'd decided not to play this year," Archer said. "I was just going home and work on my game, try to work myself back into condition. But then I won the Sahara in Las Vegas (last fall) and that gave me an exemption for this year. That's the only reason I'm out here now."

"That operation was a disaster. It took away my left side. My game, my putting, everything, just went. My distance was gone. I've been working on it pretty hard. And it's coming back. I'm getting a better feel on the putter. Even my distance is coming back."

He paused and a mischievous smile crossed his face.

"Maybe one of these days I'll be able to hit it with the big boys."

He hit it well enough to leave three of the biggest of the big hitters — Tom Weiskopf, Jim Dent and Barney Thompson — one stroke behind at 67.

Charles Coody, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Kermit Zarley and Don Iverson were grouped at 68 in the exceptionally good scoring that was at least partially attributable to players being allowed to get their hands on the ball.

Most of the grass on the 7,160-yard Quail Hollow Country Club course was killed by a hard winter followed by a drought. Recent storms turned the fairways into muddy plains and tournament officials had to go to winter rules.

Weaver's blunders cost Orioles

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles have been playing nearly flawless baseball of late, but the same can't be said of their manager.

He has made two errors in the last two weeks.

"The only explanation I have is maybe I'm thinking too far ahead," said Earl Weaver.

Weaver, who admittedly committed a tactical blunder that cost Baltimore a recent game against Minnesota, made another strategic mistake Thursday night as the Orioles dropped a 7-4 decision to the Chicago White Sox.

"It was all my fault, it was all my mistake," said Weaver. "That's why I held a meeting and apologized to my players. I told them we're still in first place and if we keep playing like we have we'll stay in first place."

With the bases loaded in the third inning, the Orioles had right-hander Tony Chavez pitching with right-handed batter Jim Essian coming to the plate for the White Sox. At this point, Weaver motioned to the bullpen for left-hander Scott McGregor.

"For some ungodly reason," said Weaver, "I thought first base was open and I was going to have McGregor walk Essian intentionally to get to Ralph Garr. After I motioned for the pitching change, I realized my mistake."

Everyone else in the ballpark realized Weaver's mistake when Essian hit a bases-clearing double, providing the White Sox with a 7-0 lead and their eventual winning runs.

In other American League games, the New York Yankees routed the Minnesota Twins 10-3, the Detroit Tigers defeated the Cleveland Indians 4-2, the Texas Rangers trimmed the Boston Red Sox 3-1 and the Oakland A's nipped the Seattle Mariners 1-0.

Yankees 10, Twins 3
Designated hitter Lou Piniella knocked in three runs with a two-run homer and a sacrifice fly and right-hander Ed Figueroa posted his seventh victory of the season as New York beat Minnesota.

Tigers 4, Indians 2
Rookie standout Dave Rozema won his fifth game with ninth-inning relief from Steve Foucault as Detroit defeated Cleveland. Rozema, a 20-year-old right-hander who entered the game with a 2.89 earned run average, raised his record to 5-2. Rozema gave up eight hits before Foucault came in and posted his fourth save of the season.

Rangers 3, Red Sox 1
Willie Horton, given a second chance when shortstop Rick Burleson dropped his foul fly, drilled a two-out, two-run double in the eighth inning, boosting Texas over Boston.

Horton, who had been a Ferguson Jenkins strikeout victim his three previous times at bat, hit a pop fly down the left field line that Burleson muffed. On the next pitch, Horton slashed a double to left center, scoring Juan Beniquez, who had singled, and Dave May, who had walked.

A's 1, Mariners 0
Mike Norris scattered four singles as Oakland edged Seattle on Jim Tyrone's run-scoring double. The A's got Norris the only run he needed in the fourth inning when Tyrone doubled home Tony Armas, who had singled.

Dick Pole went all the way for the Mariners, giving up only five hits.

McGinnis to be benched?

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It has all the elements of classic theater: the magnetism of a superstar at center stage, the dramatic background of a high-stakes confrontation, the mystery of a man's search for a lost valuable — in this case a jump shot.

The George McGinnis saga continues.

McGinnis, the 6-foot-8 All-Star forward of the Philadelphia 76ers, has been absolutely awful in the current National Basketball Association playoff finals against the Portland Trail Blazers.

On offense he has shot just 33 per cent from the field and scored a meager 9.8 points per game. On defense, he has been unable to contain Portland's Maurice Lucas, the only forward in the game who ranks on a par with McGinnis and is solidifying his position with this series.

It has reached the point where Sixers' Coach Gene Shue conceded he was considering yanking McGinnis from the starting lineup for tonight's crucial fifth game (CBS, 9 p.m., EDT) of the best-of-seven series, which is tied 2-2.

It would indeed be a drastic move, benching an All-Star.

WEEDERS GUIDE

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

How about making 147 pies from a 368-pound pumpkin, or cutting one three-foot cucumber into 288 slices for "bread and butter" pickles?

The answer is that's how Jane and Gene Grace got into the business of finding and selling seeds they expect to produce giant vegetables.

It all began when they grew a 186-pound pumpkin and made a jack o'lantern for their son Clark. They began a search and discovered such things as the Sakurajima radish, up to 15 pounds; yard-long string beans from Japan, the Luffa sponge from Egypt that can be used as a dish rag, and tomatoes that weigh two to three pounds each.

Their seeds, they insist, must produce table vegetables that are good to the taste and nutritious, as well as either gigantic or miniature.

The Graces offer cash rewards for gardeners who top records. Their catalogue (25 cents to cover postage from Grace's Gardens, Hackettstown, N.J.) offers $250 if someone beats the 197-pound "world record melon." It says "Ed (Weeks) harvested 1,717 seeds from his giant and you can now purchase up to three seeds for your garden." ($1 each).

Here are the U.S. and English records they compiled by vegetable, grower, size and variety, where known:

Carrot: (heaviest) F.H. Smotherman, Clovis, N.M., 4 lbs.;
(longest) Bob Ritz, Canton,
Ohio, 30 in.

Cauliflower: Jacob Weber, 30 lbs., 57 in. circumference. Cucumber: Henry Shauling,
Branson, Mo., 43½ in. long.
Gourd: (heaviest) John G. Ritz,
185 lbs. (1970), Nigerian Basket; (longest straight) Dewey
Phillips, Mars Hill, N.C., 72 in. long, Dipper Gourd; (longest crooked) Mitch Biederman, 81
in. long, Dipper Gourd.

Pepper: June Rutherford,
Hatch, N.M., 13½ in. long, Nu-
Mex Big Jim. Pumpkin: Bob
Fox, Ravenna, Ohio, 207 lbs.,
Big Max. Radish: Aletha Derb,
Clovis, N.M., 17 lbs. Chinese.
Squash: (longest) Joseph Proetta, Philadelphia, Pa., 66
in. Italian Vegetable Marrow;
(heaviest) Robert Ford, 451 lbs., Cornell Hungarian Mammoth.

Sunflower: (widest seedhead)
Frank Fischer, Santa Ana, Calif., 33¼ in.; Selection; (tallest plant) Mary Pinkley, Richfield,
Minn., 17 ft. 3 in. Sweet Potato:
(heaviest) Herb and Lee Vinson, Coleman, Tex., 10 lbs. 2 oz.
(1973), Centennial; (longest)
Joseph Torna, Ashtabula, Ohio, 46 in. (1973).

Tomato: Clarence Dailey,
Monona, Wis., 6 lbs. 8 oz. Delicious. Turnip: Lloyd James,
Crow, Ohio, 16½ lbs. Watermelon: Ed Weeks, Tarboro,
N.C., 197 lbs. (1975), NC Giant.

England

Bean (runner): Mrs. E. Huxley, Churton, Chester, 31½ in.,
Own seed; W. Smith, Treloy-han, St. Ives, Cornwall, 31¼
in. As Long As Your Arm.
Beet: J. Glenn, Clifton Estate,
Nottingham, 7 lb. 12 oz., Exhibition Purple. Cabbage: A.
Smith, Hove, Sussex, 65 lbs.,
Champion Drumhead. Carrot:
W. Price, Glasbury on Wye,
Hereford, 5 lbs. 14 oz., New Red Intermediate.

Cauliflower: A. Smith, Hove,
Sussex, 24 lbs., Canberra. Celery: C. Bowcock, 28 lbs., Ideal.
Onion: R. Jones, Eccleston,
Chester, 5 lbs. 4 oz., Own seed. Pea: W. Staley, Hartlepool, Co. Durham, 8½ in.,
Own seed.

Potato: A. Hitchon, 4 lbs. 2½ oz., Desiree. Pumpkin: A. Lyle, Romey, Hants, 171 lbs., Own seed. Radish: C. Roberts, Eastbourne, Sussex, 6 lbs. 10 oz.,
Japanese Minowase. Rhubarb:
A. Satterfield, Reading, Berkshire, 3 lbs. 10 oz.

Sunflower: Frank Kelland,
Essex, 23 ft. 6½ in., Russian Mammoth. Squash (marrow):
Maj. E. Anderson, Fownhope,
Hereford, 52 lbs., Giant Straight Neck. Tomato: C. Roberts, Eastbourne, Sussex, 2 lbs.
12 oz., Delicious. Turnip: K.
Ayliffe, Bronllys, Brecon,
Powys, 11 lbs. 2 oz., Purple
Top.

The English standing records are larger, heavier or longer than the above in most instances.

The Minnesota lumber industry reached the apex of its development in 1902 with an output of about 2½ billion board feet.

In World War II, a mortar operator was called a "rock sil-nger."

Claim club fire rules delayed

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Gov. Julian Carroll has confirmed allegations by a state legislator that someone hampered the state fire marshal's enforcement of fire safety regulations at a Southgate, Ky. night club.

However, the governor said Thursday that the legislator "apparently misunderstood" the time frame during which the alleged incidents occurred. State Sen. Tom Easterly, D-Frankfort, told a legislative committee Wednesday that state Fire Marshal Warren Southworth said last December that his enforcement efforts at the Beverly Hills Supper Club had been hamstrung.

Easterly said Southworth told him "someone higher up had overruled him" in his efforts to enforce regulations at the night spot where at least 161 persons died in a weekend fire. Carroll's press secretary, John Nichols, said the governor felt that Easterly's information was essentially correct, but that any attempts to block fire code enforcement occurred "a number of years ago," before Southworth became state fire marshal.

Nichols said in an interview that Southworth was employed at the time in a state government position dealing with fire prevention—not the fire marshal's office—but added he didn't know the specific job. He said the governor told him by telephone from Pikeville, Ky. that he was aware of the information Easterly presented to the committee.

Carroll said Southworth reported on the matter to him at the scene of the fire Sunday morning.

"I feel it is the same subject matter that Sen. Easterly is talking about, but he has apparently misunderstood the time at which it occurred," Nichols quoted the governor as saying. "It occurred a number of years ago."

Carroll said he could not comment further because he ordered Southworth's information included in his own investigation of the fire.

Nichols said the current investigation has two basic goals, to determine the cause of the blaze and to determine whether the structure was in compliance with building and fire safety code requirements.

Southworth said in a prepared statement Thursday that if he ever discussed problems of enforcing fire codes with Sen. Easterly, or anyone else, "I would have been referring to problems which existed at the time I was an employee of the Division of Fire Prevention, rather than anything that has occurred since I became state fire marshal in 1972."

Southworth said since he has been fire marshal none of his superiors have discussed "or communicated with me in any way" enforcement of fire safety codes at the Beverly Hills. Saying any further comment would be inappropriate, Southworth said he has turned over records from his office to the governor's investigative team.

Mrs. Carter shrugs off protest

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — In the first hostile demonstration of Rosalynn Carter's Latin American tour, about 150 students a block away nearly drowned out the U.S. First Lady as she conferred with Ecuadorean officials. "I heard some noise, but I don't know anything about it," Mrs. Carter said Thursday afternoon as she left the Legislative Palace after a discussion of the ruling military junta's plans to return the Ecuadorean government to civilian control next year. She said she thought it was "a local problem."

The students threw stones and bricks, set fire to police barricades with gasoline bombs, and shouted "Go home, bloody Rosalynn!" and "Yankees just want to reinforce imperialism" into an amplifier.

Local resident arrested for discharging firearm

A 28-year-old Washington C.H. man was arrested on charges of disorderly conduct and discharging a firearm by Washington C.H. police officers Thursday.

Paul Simmons, 432 Delaware St., allegedly fired a 20-gauge shotgun at his residence.

Simmons' wife, Gloria, reported that her husband was drunk, had a shotgun, and was shooting in the house.

When police officers arrived at the residence, Simmons had reportedly "calmed down." However, police officers reported when his brother-in-law came to get the borrowed gun, he became belligerent and was placed under arrest.

Police officers discovered a hole in the bedroom wall that was apparently caused by a shotgun blast. Police said there was a hole in the interior wall of the bedroom and a hole on the outside wall of the house where the shotgun charge had apparently exited.

City police also investigated an assault report involving two juveniles Thursday.

An Eastern Avenue resident reported that his seven-year-old son was beaten by an 11-year-old neighbor boy. He told police officers that such incidents have happened in the past and the neighbor boy's mother has refused to punish him.

Police officers advised the man to contact the county prosecutor on the matter.

Mini-bike passenger slightly hurt in Elm Street mishap

A 16-year-old Washington C.H. resident was slightly injured Thursday evening when he fell from the rear of a mini-bike.

Rod Tyree, 203 Florence St., was a passenger on the back of the minibike. He suffered shoulder and arm injuries and was treated and released from the Fayette County Memorial Hospital emergency room.

The accident occurred on S. Elm Street, according to Washington C.H. police officers.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported two minor accidents involving vehicles that reportedly left the scene.

Debra A. Kelly, 25, Bloomingburg, was cited for leaving the scene of an accident early Friday morning. She allegedly backed her car from a parking space on the Possum Hollar Lounge parking lot and struck a parked car owned by Deana K. Gabbard of Blanchester.

Sheriff's deputies are still investigating a mishap near the intersection of Ohio 729 and the Harold Road. A vehicle reportedly failed to negotiate a turn on Ohio 729 at 9:52 p.m., hit the edge of a guardrail, and struck two rods of fence owned by Edward Pitzer of Jeffersonville.

The vehicle then turned around in a soybean field and left the scene of the accident.

Haldeman, Mitchell to face sentencing

WASHINGTON (AP) — John N. Mitchell and H.R. Haldeman return for the first time Monday to the courtroom where they were convicted of the Watergate cover-up to learn officially that their freedom ends this month.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica indicated in court Thursday that the former Nixon administration officials will have to report to minimum security federal prisons June 22.

Mitchell, the former attorney general, probably will go to Allenwood, Pa., and Haldeman, the former White House chief of staff, to Lompoc, Calif.

The men entertain only a slender hope that they can escape the 2½-to-8-year prison sentence imposed on them by Sirica on Feb. 21, 1975, the last time they went before the judge. They were convicted on New Year's Day 1975 of conspiracy, obstruction of justice and lying under oath in attempting to cover up White House involvement in the Watergate burglary.

After being denied Supreme Court review last month, they asked to stay out of prison while waging a last attempt to have the high court reconsider their cases. That, too, was denied, but the petition still will be filed by the deadline, June 17.

Ironically, that day is the fifth anniversary of the event that started the chain of events which led to Richard M. Nixon's downfall — the burglary of Democratic party headquarters in the Watergate office building.

Mitchell lawyer Plato Cacheris and John J. Wilson, representing Haldeman, asked Sirica on Thursday to give their clients time to get their affairs in order and to allow Haldeman to attend his daughter's graduation from law school in Los Angeles on June 19.

When Watergate prosecutor Charles Ruff offered no objection, Sirica said he probably would set June 22 as the date for the two to report.

Mainly About People

Diana Kathleen Cottrill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cottrill, 1934 Lampe Rd., was recently initiated into the Nu Chapter of Pi Lambda Theta, a national honorary organization for educators. She will graduate June 9 from Ohio State University with a bachelor's degree in English Education.

Two dog bite cases probed

Two dog bite incidents were reported to area law enforcement agencies Thursday. Both victims were treated and released at the Fayette County Memorial Hospital emergency room.

Two-year-old Mary Ann Stolzenburg of Lockbourne was reportedly bitten or scratched by a dog while visiting the Oscar McKinney residence, 624 S. Fayette St.

Stephanie Camp, 11, Circleville, was bitten on the foot by a dog while visiting the Cindy Frisbie residence at 1510 N. North St.
